

Group Eleven Announces VP Exploration Strategy Departure

Vancouver, Canada, November 28, 2019 – Group Eleven Resources Corp. (TSX.V: ZNG; OTC: GRLVF; FRA: 3GE) (“Group Eleven” or the “Company”) announces that John Barry is stepping down as ‘Vice President, Exploration Strategy’ and resigning as director of Group Eleven’s various Irish subsidiaries with immediate effect.

“As a co-founder of Group Eleven back in 2015 and subsequently Chairman of the Company before its IPO in December 2017, it has been good to work with such a talented team of highly experienced geologists and to see the Company establish an unrivalled exploration portfolio in a world-class zinc district” stated John Barry. “After 32 years exploring globally for metals on five continents it is now time for me to pursue other ideas outside of mining and mineral exploration but also keep some involvement in the sector through independent consulting. I wish the Company great success and luck in the Company’s exploration efforts for the next giant zinc deposit” said Mr Barry.
